Keshav Sharma, right, wife Savi and their 10-month-old son, Raghav, meet with Premier Brad Wall at the legislative building on Thursday. The family of three, from India, is among the more than 1.1 million people who now call the province home. ALYSSA MCDONALD/METRO IN REGINA

Immigrants push Sask. population past 1.1 million

Meet the neighbours. Premier welcomes the newcomers that make Saskatchewan 'better'

Premier Brad Wall says international immigration is a huge part of Saskatchewan's latest population boom.

According to Statistics Canada, the number of people living in the province has passed the 1.1 million mark for the first time.

That's an increase of 20,757 people in the past year and more than 106,000 people since 2007.

The premier says the new goal is to have 1.2 million people by 2020.

He says the economy is drawing people to Saskatchewan for jobs and helping to keep new graduates here. The premier also says better immigration policies helped.

"We've got to keep our eyes focused on that because we need newcomers as well, not just for the economy and the labour shortage, but because it makes us better," Wall said Thursday.

"I love all the accents."

Fresh faces

20,757

Saskatchewan's population increase over the last year.

Amol Cheema is one of those newcomers.

Cheema, originally from India, was at university in Toronto when a couple of his friends moved to Saskatchewan. He followed in 2011.

"They said it was a good province, lots of opportunities, so I came here," he said at a gathering for newcomers Thursday at the legislature.

He said it's been great, except for the "really harsh" winter, which Cheema jokes that he's getting used to.

Cheema, 27, is working as a civilian with the Regina police. He hopes to become an officer when his permanent residency paperwork is done.

Cheema said he "absolutely" sees himself staying for the long term.

"I love it here," he said. "It's the same as my province where I came from (in India); it's an agriculture province as well. It's like life is kind of relaxed; you're not rushing to your job. It takes five minutes to go to work.

"And then I got this opportunity, and I think as an immigrant it's my responsibility to serve the people of Saskatchewan and the people of Canada."

Police looking out for construction workers

Dangerous driving.
As the fall season gets underway, SPS reminds motorists to drive safely in work zones

JACOB MORGAN
jacob.morgan@metronews.ca

Those who drive recklessly in construction zones this fall are likely to land themselves in hot water.

At a press conference Thursday afternoon, Sgt. Tony Nadon of the traffic unit said Saskatoon police are ramping up their operations in these areas.

"The police service is going to pay particular attention to this as the fall approaches," said Nadon. "Now there will be a big push to complete all the road work before winter arrives."

He added that there have been 17 close calls in construction zones over the course of the summer.

"It is alarming the number of near misses there has been this summer," he said. "Some of them are still currently being investigated and there's a variety of different offences that have occurred."

Charges for offences range from speeding to operating a vehicle without due care, to dangerous driving, said Nadon.

Under the Traffic Safety Act, he said, the speed limit is 60 kilometres per hour.

"When there's a construction zone you should follow the signs," he said. "Even though, for example today, there may not be workers out there because it's raining, but those still are construction zones."

"They're working in an environment where there are cars going by at a fairly good rate of speed, so they're working in a hyper-vigilant state when they're on the roadways," he said.

Fatality

Last year an 18-year-old employee with a construction company was killed in Saskatchewan by a passing SUV, and Nadon said many workers still feel at risk.

Boy charged over alleged school shooting threat

Mounties have charged a 15-year-old boy after staff at a school in northern Saskatchewan say a student threatened to shoot them.

RCMP Sgt. Craig Cleary says police got a complaint on Wednesday afternoon from three staff members at Stobart Community School in Duck Lake.

The pre-kindergarten to Grade 12 was put in lockdown, although because it was 4:15 p.m., most students had gone home. Police searched the school but the student wasn't found, so remaining students were allowed to go home at that time.

At about 4:45 p.m., a 15-year-old boy from the Beardy's and Okemasis First Nation was arrested near the First Nation's health clinic.

The boy is charged with three counts of uttering threats and mischief and is scheduled to appear in provincial court in Saskatoon on Friday.

Cleary says it's alleged the boy verbally threatened the staff members.

"He uttered threats of death to one of the school staff and bodily harm to other school staff members," Cleary said.

He can't say if they are teachers.

"No firearms were located with him nor have we been able to find that he had access to any," Cleary added.

Remains of Sask. girl found in rubble

Mounties say the remains of a 10-year-old girl have been found in the rubble of a burned home in northeastern Saskatchewan.

The fire broke out early Tuesday in the remote community of Pelican Narrows.

RCMP say the child's great-grandparents managed to escape and thought she had made it out as well. The cause of the fire is under investigation. THE CANADIAN PRESS

'Holistic' legislation

Bill to address cyberbullying

Justice Minister Peter MacKay says the Tories will introduce new legislation in the fall to fight cyberbullying.

MacKay was at the Canadian Centre for Child Protection in Winnipeg to make a donation to mark the birth of Prince George.

MacKay says the whole nation has been touched by the death of a 15-year-old Saskatchewan boy who was apparently driven to suicide because of bullying.

The teen's mother, Kim Loik, says she wants to see Ottawa bring in national anti-bullying legislation.

MacKay says she won't have long to wait. He says the governing Conservatives will bring in "holistic" legislation which will include greater public education and changes to the Criminal Code. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Wallin expense scandal intensifies

An RCMP probe into ineligible expenses claimed by senators is heating up.

Conservative Sen. David Tkachuk says the Mounties have asked to speak to him about fellow Saskatchewan senator Pamela Wallin's travel expenses. He says an appointment has been scheduled for the same week Parliament is to resume with an Oct. 16 throne speech.

Carolyn Stewart Olsen, another Conservative senator, says she "fully expects to meet" with the Mounties when she returns to Ottawa.

Marjory LeBreton, the former government leader in the Senate, says she's already been interviewed by the police. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Thieves take hundreds of apples from single mom

Stolen fruit. Doris Lemke had about 250 apples stolen from a tree on her property; she was planning on using them to make applesauce for her bed-ridden son

JACOB MORGAN
jacob.morgan@metronews.ca

One Saskatoon woman's struggle is bringing out the best of the community through an ad posted on Kijiji.

Last weekend Doris Lemke enlisted the help of neighbours to pick 250 red and ripe apples from a tree on her front lawn.

She was planning on making applesauce for her 22-year-old son, Richard, who suffers from a genetic condition causing malignant tumors to grow on his body.

But when they got there the tree had already been stripped bare.

"I was just shocked," Lemke told Metro. "I still go out there to look at it and I can't believe that every single apple is gone."

Lemke took to Kijiji to air her grievance, and the posting has since received more than 2,000 views. Several people have offered up their help in the form of fresh produce and even gift certificates to grocery stores.

"At most I was hoping maybe somebody knew who took my apples and I would be able to talk to them," she said. "It lets you know that there are people in the community that are supportive and kind and generous."

Lauren Crosby met Lemke about 20 years ago at church, and said she can't think of a more deserving person to receive this outpouring of support.

Cancer runs rampant in Lemke's family, said Crosby. Lemke herself is a survivor, and previously lost her 12-year-old daughter, Erika, to a brain tumour.

"Doris is one of the most amazing people I have ever met.

"She nursed Erika through her long battle with cancer and moved her family to Calgary to be closer to treatment," Crosby said.

"When Erika passed Doris moved back and has since been struggling with her oldest son, Richard."

‘The white widow’ wanted in connection with terrorist plot

Samantha Lewthwaite. She’s the daughter of a former British soldier, was born in Northern Ireland and grew up northwest of London

The tabloids call her “the white widow,” a Northern Ireland-born Muslim convert who was married to one of the suicide bombers in the 2005 attack on London’s transit system. And for days now, the British media have been rife with speculation she took part in the terrorist takeover at a Nairobi shopping mall.

On Thursday, Interpol, acting at Kenya’s request, issued an arrest notice for 29-year-old fugitive Samantha Lewthwaite — not in connection with the mall attack, but over a 2011 plot to bomb holiday resorts in Kenya.

If Lewthwaite indeed embraced the jihadi cause, it would mark a chilling turnaround for the apparently grieving widow who originally condemned the London transit bombings and criticized her late husband, Jermaine Lindsay, for taking part.

Officials have not made public any evidence linking her to the mall attack. The Interpol notice did not mention it. And al-Shabab, the Somali Islamic extremist group behind the takeover, denied any female fighters participated.

Interpol said this is the first time it has been asked to issue a “red notice” for Lewthwaite. The wanted-person alert said she is wanted on charges of possessing explosives and conspiracy to commit a felony in December 2011.

“Kenyan authorities have ensured that all 190 member countries are aware of the danger posed by this woman, not just across the region but also worldwide,” Interpol said in a statement.

There was no immediate explanation from Kenyan police on why it asked for the alert now. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Shipwreck recovery

Divers find remains near Costa Concordia

Divers spotted human remains Thursday near Italy’s Costa Concordia cruise ship and DNA tests will determine if they are the last two bodies missing among the shipwreck’s 32 victims, authorities said.

The search for the remains of an Italian female passenger and an Indian waiter resumed after the capsized luxury liner was rotated upright last week in an unprecedented marine salvage operation 20 months after it crashed into a reef off Giglio Island.

The remains will be examined by forensic experts. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

French mountain climber stumbles upon box of jewels

A French mountain climber stumbled upon a case of dozens of cut jewels, worth hundreds of thousands of dollars — believed to be debris from one of two Air India crashes decades ago, police said.

Police Cmdr. Sylvain Merly of France’s Savoie region said the experienced Mont Blanc climber, who asked to stay anonymous, found the box marked “Made in India” while scaling one of the peak’s glaciers and turned it in on Sept. 9.

Authorities hope to find someone connected with its owner. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Militants target relief helicopter in Pakistan’s quake-stricken area

Separatist militants fired two rockets that narrowly missed a Pakistani government helicopter surveying a region devastated by an earthquake, underscoring the dangers authorities face in helping victims in the impoverished province of Baluchistan.

The doctor in charge of the main hospital in the area said the facility doesn’t even have an X-ray machine or a laboratory and that supplies were running low, as the death toll from Tuesday’s 7.7-magnitude quake climbed to 355 with nearly 700 people injured. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Woman 'humiliated' in medical exam, court martial told

Gatineau, Que. Retired petty officer 2nd class James Wilks faces 26 sexual-assault and breach-of-trust charges involving 16 women

A former military medical technician left women feeling uncomfortable and even "humiliated" after he touched or looked at their breasts during physical examinations, a court martial heard Thursday.

The second day of a court martial for James Wilks, a petty officer second class who is now retired, featured the testimony of several women who described similar experiences of having their breasts and nipples fondled during exams.

Their identities are protected under a publication ban.

One of the women said Wilks ordered her to expose her breasts so he could touch them during a physical exam.

She said he spent a minute or two touching her breasts before ordering her to pull up her hospital gown and get off the examination table.

The woman choked up several times as she spoke.

She described how Wilks then told her to bend over and touch her toes while she was wearing only the gown and her underwear.

She said he ordered her to keep her hands on her toes when she tried to keep her loose-fitting underpants from slipping. Wilks pulled up her underpants and held her gown as she was bent over, the court martial heard.

"I was humiliated," she said.

She told the court martial Wilks was "very firm" and didn't give her the impression a breast exam was optional. She described him as "intimidating."

Maj. David Hodson, who represents Wilks, accused the witness of fabricating the episode. Wilks faces 26 sexual-assault and breach-of-trust charges involving 16 women over six years. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cross-border energy. Harper talks tough in New York on pipeline

Canada won't "take no for an answer" from the U.S. when it comes to the Keystone XL pipeline, Prime Minister Stephen Harper said Thursday.

The logic in support of the project going ahead is "overwhelming," and governments at all levels on both sides of the Canada-U.S. border are endorsing it, Harper told a high-powered business audience in New York.

"My view is that you don't take no for an answer," Harper said. "We haven't had that. If we were to get that, that won't be final. This won't be final until it's approved and we will keep pushing forward."

Harper also dismissed the divide between his government and the White House over projections of how many jobs Keystone XL will create. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Arctic Ocean

Chopper wreck recovered

The Canadian Coast Guard says it has recovered a helicopter that crashed and sank in the icy Arctic Ocean, killing three men.

Two ships worked to recover the wreckage of the Messerschmitt Bo-105 chopper that went down Sept. 9 in M'Clure Strait.

One of the ships with the chopper on board was en route to shore where Transportation Safety Board investigators are to study the wreckage to help determine why it crashed.

It's not clear if the aircraft was equipped with a black box flight information recorder or if a black box was recovered.

The commander of the icebreaker Amundsen was among those killed in the crash.

Post-mortem examinations have suggested the men likely survived the impact, but later died of hypothermia after being in the water for about an hour. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Court upholds ex-president's war crimes conviction

Historic verdict.
Taylor is the first head of state convicted by an international war-crimes court since Second World War

Taylor's lawyer Morris Anyah KOEN VAN WEEL/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

More than a decade after fuelling a murderous campaign of terror in Sierra Leone by supplying rebels with arms, Charles Taylor was definitively convicted and imprisoned Thursday for 50 years, in a ruling that finally delivered justice for victims.

The appeals chamber of the Special Court for Sierra Leone upheld the 65-year-old former Liberian president's conviction on 11 counts of war crimes and crimes against humanity, including terrorism, murder, rape and using child soldiers. Taylor is the first former head of state convicted by an international war-crimes court since the Second World War and Thursday's confirmation was welcomed as underscoring a new era of accountability for heads of state.

"This is a historic and momentous day for the people of Sierra Leone and the region," UN Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon said in a statement.

"The judgment is a significant milestone in international criminal justice, as it confirms the conviction of a former head of state for aiding, abetting and planning war crimes and crimes against humanity."

Stephen Rapp, the ambassador for war crimes issues at the U.S. Department of State and former prosecutor at the Sierra Leone court, said the ruling "sends a clear message to all the world, that when you commit crimes like this, it may not happen overnight, but there will be a day of reckoning."

Realize. Co-op jobs lead to careers.
Recognizing that employment and education go hand-in-hand, the University of Regina was the first post-secondary institution in Western Canada to establish a Co-operative Education program — taking students out of the classroom during the course of their studies and into paying jobs.
That was 45 years ago.
Today, employers, students and other post-secondary institutions continue to look to the University of Regina as a leader in experiential and career-centred learning. And no wonder: our Co-op students earned $9.7 million in 2013.
This past year, we set a record in career-related Co-op placements with 835. That's an increase of 45 per cent over the past seven years, with 90 per cent of those placements right here in Saskatchewan. As a result, most of our Co-op students have permanent job offers before they graduate.

Foreign-service strike. Feds and diplomats reach a tentative agreement

Treasury Board president Tony Clement says the federal government and Canada's striking diplomats have reached a tentative agreement.

Clement says in a statement that he signed a tentative agreement with Tim Edwards, president of the Professional Association of Foreign Service Officers.

The union and government have been at odds for months as the union's 1,350 members staged rotating job action at the Foreign Affairs headquarters in Ottawa and more than a dozen missions abroad.

The foreign-service staff were seeking parity with their counterparts in other federal departments, who they say make as much as $14,000 more per year for similar work.

The union, which has been without a contract since mid-2011, has been in a legal strike position since April.

Quoted

"This labour dispute could have been completely avoided."

Paul Dewar, NDP foreign-affairs critic

Details of the settlement were not immediately available. The union ordered an immediate suspension of all strike measures and job action.

NDP foreign-affairs critic Paul Dewar, whose Ottawa riding is home to many public servants, welcomed the settlement but blasted the government.

"This labour dispute could have been completely avoided, if the Conservatives had chosen to engage in good-faith bargaining rather than discrediting our diplomats," he said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Alberta. Teen charged in sale of synthetic weed linked to hospitalization

RCMP have arrested an Edmonton-area youth on drug charges after an investigation into two other boys who were sent to hospital in medical distress.

Police say the 14-year-old and 16-year-old who were sent to hospital had taken a synthetic form of marijuana known as K2 or Spice.

They have since been discharged from hospital.

RCMP say a 16-year-old boy has been charged with criminal negligence causing bodily harm and breach of probation.

He appeared in an Edmonton court Thursday and is to appear in St. Albert youth court on Nov. 5.

Police say they were called Monday about a 14-year-old boy having seizures in a back alley in St. Albert, and later, they got another call about a 16-year-old boy in medical distress at a school parking lot.

RCMP have said there could be more of this drug in the community and are urging families to talk about the dangers of drugs.

Number of doctors rising alongside bill for services

More on the way.

Report says the number of physicians will continue its rise as more doctors graduate from med school

The number of doctors in Canada is at an all-time high and payment for their services has continued to rise in lock-step, hitting a jaw-dropping $22 billion last year, the latest figures show.

Canada had more than 75,000 physicians working in 2012, up almost four per cent from the previous year, says a report by the Canadian Institute for Health Information (CIHI).

Overall payments to physicians by provinces and territories rose by nine per cent in 2011-12, surpassing the growth rate of six and eight per cent, respectively, in the previous two years. Canadian doctors were paid an average of about $328,000 before taxes and expenses in 2011-12 — a five per cent increase over 2010-11. The average gross clinical payment per physician ranged from $258,000 in Nova Scotia to $376,000 in Ontario.

Last year, almost 28.7 per cent, or $6.3 billion, of the overall $22 billion in payments came through alternative modes of payment, said Walter Feeney, program lead for CIHI's physician databases.

The report suggests physician numbers will likely continue to rise in the coming years, in part because more doctors are graduating from medical schools. Last year, more than 2,600 new Canadian MDs earned their white coats, a jump of almost five per cent from 2011 and 25 per cent higher than five years ago. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Beauty Queen sentenced to community service

Kendra McKenzie Gill stands with her attorney before court Thursday in Salt Lake City, Utah. Gill, a Miss Riverton beauty contest winner, and three other teens pleaded guilty to attempted possession of a chemical device after being accused of tossing homemade bottle bombs in a Salt Lake suburb. The charges will be dismissed after completing 200 hours of community service and paying a fine of $500. RICK BOWMER/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Family worry over jailed Canadians

Greenpeace. Although Russian President Vladimir Putin said the activists aren't pirates, he defended their detention

The families of two Canadian Greenpeace members jailed for two months Thursday in Russia after protesting near an oil platform remain concerned for their safety.

It has been one week since the coast guard seized a Greenpeace ship after several members of its crew attempted to scale the Arctic platform. The Arctic Sunrise, with 30 people on board, was towed to Murmansk in northwest Russia, where the crew is being investigated for piracy.

According to Greenpeace, 22 activists have been jailed for two months. A further eight members are being held for three days.

Among those detained for two months are Canadians Paul Ruzycki, 48, of Port Colborne, Ont., who served as chief mate, and Alexandre Paul, 35, a boatswain from the Montreal area.

No charges have yet been brought against them. Ruzycki's sister, Patti Ruzycki-Stirling, said officials told her the two-month detention was "a preventative measure to ensure that they do not flee the country while Russia is trying to figure out what charges to lay."

She said her family remains worried, particularly because Ruzycki suffers from lupus, an autoimmune disease, and likely doesn't have access to his medication.

Ex-teacher freed after serving 30 days for rape

A former high school teacher was released from prison Thursday after completing a 30-day sentence for raping a 14-year-old student, a term that is under review by Montana's high court and has critics calling for the removal of the judge who handled the case.

Stacey Rambold, 54, left prison after serving the sentence handed down by District Judge G. Todd Baugh for the 2007 rape of the teen, who committed suicide in 2010.

Ottawa. Two girls plead guilty, third still on trial in teen-pimping case

Two of three teenaged Ottawa girls accused of befriending other teens through Facebook and other social media before forcing them to work as "escorts" have pleaded guilty in a surprise about-face at trial.

Court was told Thursday that the two girls had reached a resolution with Crown prosecutors.

Justice Diane Lahaie has ordered a pre-sentence report and a psychiatric review of a girl who pleaded guilty to six charges, including human trafficking, making and distributing child pornography and exploitation.

She is to be sentenced on Dec. 20.

A 17-year-old girl facing the fewest charges in the case pleaded guilty to four charges including exploitation, assault, uttering threats and breaching the conditions of her bail.

The third accused, a 16-year-old girl facing the most charges in the case, did not change her not guilty plea. Her trial will continue in October.

Twitter, NFL ink deal to show football videos

The National Football league has struck a deal to show game highlights and other video content on Twitter ahead of the micro-messaging service's initial public offering of stock.

The deal is part of Twitter's Amplify program, which lets TV broadcasters show ad-supported video clips in users' Twitter feeds as users discuss what they are watching on TV. Other partners include The Weather Channel, the National Basketball Association, Warner Music and CBS.

The NFL and Twitter said Thursday that the deal will let football fans interact with NFL video content created specifically for Twitter — on computers, tablets or mobile devices. Content will include highlights from NFL Network's Thursday Night Football and clips from other regular season and post-season games, along with news, analysis and fantasy football advice. Rogers, Sprint to offer wireless system in cars

Rogers Communications and U.S. wireless carrier Sprint Corp. say they will offer Canadians high-speed Internet access in their vehicles through a new service announced Thursday.

They said the service will be available from auto manufacturers that deploy Sprint's Velocity system in Canada and it will leverage Rogers' wireless networks to connected vehicles on the road.

Vehicles with Sprint Velocity — which has already been deployed in the United States — will have access to news, sports scores, weather alerts, driving directions and vehicle diagnostics via an in-dash touch screen, they say.

Sprint Velocity also provides connectivity for mobile devices in the car including smartphones and tablets. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Digital giants boost economy by $7.3B

Twitter, YouTube and other digital platforms are changing the way companies in Canada do business, as well as creating jobs and adding economic value, a new report says. PHOTO ILLUSTRATION DAVID VAN DYKE/METRO

New report. Industry faces challenges including lack of R&D and skilled workers

Facebook, YouTube and other digital platforms contribute $7.3 billion a year to Canada's economy and employ nearly 80,000 people, a report says

Whether they're being used to disseminate music, provide remote access to health care, or interact with customers, digital platforms are transforming businesses and creating efficiencies, said the report called Canada's Digital Imperative: Measuring Digital Platform's Labour Market and Economic Impact.

However, the industry also faces challenges, including constraints on corporate resources, lack of skilled workers, and inadequate research and development, the report by the Information and Communications Technology Council found.

"Digital platforms are increasingly providing enterprises with greater connectivity, resulting in profound changes in the way they do business and ... deliver digital content," the report said.

The report defines digital platforms as anything that allows content producers and consumers to interact, including social media such as Facebook, user-generated content such as YouTube and meeting applications such as WebEx.

The industry is expected to double within five years to $14.8 billion a year in revenue, while employment is expected to increase by more than one-quarter, creating 22,000 new jobs by 2018, the report estimates.

Most of the revenue and jobs are attributed to companies that have adopted digital platforms. Canadian companies that provide digital platform services represent less than 20 per cent of the sector, the report said.

Three-quarters of Canadian businesses say they use at least one digital platform for communicating either with staff or customers or suppliers, the study found.

Nearly half said using digital platforms helped cut costs. Half also said digital platforms significantly improved customer service. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Chilean court stops short of nixing Pascua-Lama permit

The Supreme Court of Chile has upheld a decision by regulators that halted construction at Barrick Gold Corp.'s troubled Pascua-Lama project until it completes work to keep it from contaminating the watershed below.

However, the court stopped short of ordering a re-evaluation of the company's environmental permit — a bigger obstacle that had been sought by an indigenous community living below the $8.5-billion US project.

Barrick said Thursday it was "pleased that the ruling allows the project to advance in compliance with all legal and regulatory requirements."

"Barrick has submitted a plan to Chilean regulatory authorities which estimates completion of the water management system by the end of 2014," the gold miner said.

The country's environmental watchdog agency ordered construction stopped earlier this year until Barrick meets its environmental promises.

John Ing, president of Maison Placements in Toronto, said the final cost of the project may be a bigger barrier for Pascua-Lama than the environmental concerns. "This is proving to be, I believe, the world's most expensive gold mine," Ing said. "One questions — in a capital-short environment — whether Barrick should be actually going slow or in fact should be putting it in mothballs."

Ing said when Barrick decided to go ahead with Pascua-Lama, the environment for big projects was different.

"Today the environment is a lot more hostile for big projects. Mega projects bring mega problems, that's been the history over the last few years for the gold miners," he said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

GLOBAL CHANGE NO SMALL GRATIFRY

THE METRO LIST

Neil Morton
metronews.ca

1 Social Good Summit. This conference in New York was trending on Twitter under the hashtag #2030now. It focuses on the innovative role new media can play in shaping long-term, sustainable solutions to the planet's ills, from human rights to poverty. Actor/social do-gooder Ian Somerhalder was on one panel and said we can use social media "to create quantifiable change globally." Let's do it.

2 Terry Fox. Canada's national treasure, who has inspired generations with his Marathon of Hope to raise awareness and money for cancer research, was inducted into Canada's Walk of Fame Saturday. The fight on Terry's behalf will continue until a cure is found. You can watch the Walk of Fame Awards on Oct. 27 on Global.

3 #WeirdEmmys. The Emmys were trippy and awkward, starting with Will Arnett's orange-glow tan and continuing with the curious picks for winners and the, er, lifeless tributes to recently deceased actors. Many people ended up switching to Breaking Bad or, in my case, to the season premiere of Battle of the Blades on CBC. Or it just put them to sleep before they could even channel-surf.

4 Dream Job. Richard Peddie, the former CEO of Maple Leaf Sports and Entertainment, has a new book, Dream Job, coming out Oct. 22. It promises to take us behind the scenes at MLSE and inside the boardrooms and dressing rooms of major-league sports. This is a must-read — but one I wish included a chapter on a Stanley Cup or NBA title run for the Leafs and Raptors.

5 Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D. Marvel's newest TV series, an offshoot of The Avengers, premiered Tuesday on ABC to great ratings — fuelled by a buzz campaign that saw it achieve one million fans on its Facebook page before it even aired, apparently a new record for a series launch. Further proof that everything good can be traced back to social media.

6 Dragons' Den season 8. The iconic Canadian show that has inspired countless entrepreneurs begins its eighth season next Wednesday (Oct. 2) at 8 p.m. on CBC. Special episodes this year include an only-in-Canada episode highlighting products that only Canucks could have drummed up. Such as scrotum lotion. I'm scratching my head wondering why I didn't come up with that first.

7 River Phoenix. A book called Last Night at the Viper Room, due out in October, tells the life and death story of acclaimed actor River Phoenix at age 23 in 1993. The teen idol (Stand By Me) died of a drug overdose in front of the West Hollywood club. What Cory Monteith was to the tweens/teens of this generation, River was to those of his generation.

8 Breaking Bad. The finale of this show, considered one of the best dramas ever, is this Sunday on AMC. Now that it's over, I think it's about time I start watching this show and discover how remarkable Bryan Cranston is.

9 Anna Faris. It's always amusing to see people get on Twitter and figure out how it works. Like actress Anna Faris, who started tweeting recently, and had gems like "What the heck is retweeting? And why does it feel so good?" And then there was "I feel like the world needs to know that mayonnaise is my favorite condiment #amisupposedtohastageverytime."

10 Gratifries. You can now get a Whopper with lower-fat french fries, as Burger King is introducing Gratifries, which have 40 per cent less fat and 30 per cent fewer calories than rival fast-food fries. Now McDonald's has to introduce a GratiMac to answer the bell.

Breaking through child labour in Africa

At first glance it looks as though these students share the same struggles as any other student: homework assignments, curfew and chores.

But in actual fact they have worked hard with their community for the chance to obtain an education in a village that is plagued with child labour in the oil-palm industry.

One-third of children in Nyameyiekrom, in the western region of Ghana, cannot attend school because they are needed to chop oil-palm fruits with heavy, bladed poles by climbing high up the trees. METRO

- In 2008, the community of Nyameyiekrom built a small school out of bamboo for four teachers and 288 students.
- Free the Children has since built an additional school room, and are confident they will be completing more rooms with latrines and water sources in the future.

Synopsis

When we first meet Niki Lauda (Daniel Brühl) and James Hunt (Chris Hemsworth) they are third stringers, talented Formula Three drivers desperate for a chance to move up to the big show. Bad blood flows between the two, stemming back to an incident when Hunt edged Lauda off the track the first time they faced off against one another. Cut to the 1976 Formula One season. Lauda seems unstoppable, until tragedy strikes and Lauda is badly burned in a fiery crash. During his recuperation Hunt rises in the ranks, leading to a showdown for the World Championship at the Japan Grand Prix.

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Some spark, some fumes

Rush. Ron Howard's race flick leaves the romantic storyline in the pit and allows the realism of those hairpin turns to tell the story

Richard: Mark, in some ways Rush is a paint-by-numbers story — Formulaic One, maybe? — of opposites.

Lauda and Hunt face off in predictable ways — the kind of thing we've seen in other sports films — but the film really takes off in its second half when the characters show some growth and the racing scenes take centre stage.

Director Ron Howard takes us inside the cars — literally.

The races are exciting, visceral and as close as I'll ever get to rounding a hairpin curve at super sonic speeds. What did you think?

Mark: The races are well done, no doubt.

But there has to be more, and often there is. I loved the groovy Euro-'70s milieu of the movie, the sensuality of the cars themselves, and the behind-the-scenes politics of the Formula One game. But the movie is episodic, and lacks — wait for the pun — narrative drive.

Chris Hemsworth is an arrogant rogue in the Lightning McQueen mode, but Daniel Brühl plays a rival racer with the soul of an actuary.

Neither of them are exactly nice guys; in fact, they're a couple of grand prix.

RC: Ha! I liked Brühl.

It would have been easy to play Lauda as a one-note egotist, but as his character finds his passion after the horrific accident, Brühl adds complexity, bringing him to life as a fully rounded man.

Hemsworth hammers it home, proving there is more to him than playing superhero Thor in The Avengers movies, but I really thought Brühl showed the most range.

MB: Burning half your face off will often give you that range.

He goes from a man who won't smile to one who can't smile.

But he's also an unsympathetic martinet for a lot of the movie, and I kept waiting for Ron Howard to go back to the Hemsworth story, which was more fun. How do you think the movie stacks up against classic racing movies like Le Mans or Winning?

RC: I think it compares well to movies like Winning, Grand Prix and Days of Thunder, but the racing flick it has most in common with has to be Le Mans, just for sheer speed-demon spirit. Remember Steve McQueen's famous quote about racing? "Anything that happens before or after ... is just waiting."

MB: A good quote indeed. I thought Rush was a bit more realistic than the other movies, less romanticized, and had the balance of storyline and racing just about right.

Floating over adversity: Bullock displays gravitas in new space film

Gravity. Star of Speed, The Heat learns to convey more with less in a weighty role about a weightless astronaut

IN FOCUS
Richard Crouse
scene@metronews.ca

"I think we need to make another movie about how we made this movie," says Sandra Bullock on the filming of Gravity, her new lost-in-space film.

The Heat star plays Dr. Ryan Stone, an astronaut untethered from her space shuttle following a debris storm. Cut loose from her space partner (George Clooney) and her ride to Earth, she drifts through the inky darkness until discovering a way to survive.

"The film is about adversities, and we were going through adversities," says director Alfonso Cuarón. "Everything was a big challenge."

Technically, the shoot was arduous. Recreating the zero-gravity of space required Bullock to learn to move at 30 per cent of her usual speed, and to be trussed up like a marionette on a 12-wire system and other torturous devices.

"We had a consultant from Guantanamo Bay come in," jokes Cuarón.

Emotionally the shoot also presented issues. How could Bullock portray the impassioned inner life of the character when covered with a helmet and spacesuit for much of the performance?

"I think every actor will tell you that they are always panicked about being able to convey something with the least amount of preciousness," she says. "If all you have are your eyes or your face, just feel it truthfully. For me, I didn't think about being behind the visor. It was still my whole body feeling it.

"But a lot of times you'd feel yourself emoting something and they'd say, 'No, we didn't see anything.' I just had to trust in what (Cuarón) saw. I saw nothing. I heard nothing. I had him in my head and I just had to trust that.

"It's a weird profession. You have to unscrew your head and screw on this other head of what this other person is going through and you go, 'Wow, that's not a pretty place to live all day.'"

Working with Clooney, who she's known since before they both were famous, also provided support.

When she was having trouble with a particular scene, Clooney sent an email with a some suggestions on how to make it work. "It's not my business," he wrote, "so throw this in the trash or use it."

As it turns out, his ideas were bang-on. "That's the gift of knowing someone for so long," she says. "He gives you gold tidbits like that. It's sweet."

Comedy

Don Jon

Director. Joseph Gordon-Levitt

Stars. Joseph Gordon-Levitt, Scarlett Johansson

For a first attempt at writing and directing a movie, Don Jon is a promising peek at what Joseph Gordon-Levitt may have up his sleeve. In the case of this R-rated inception into filmmaking, it's a profane portrayal of a young porn-addicted Romeo who falls for the seemingly ideal woman (Scarlett Johansson). As the film progresses, Gordon-Levitt's storyline slumps a bit by repetition, but compelling performances (and a couple clever cameos) definitely compensate this crass comedy. STEVE GOW

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

Michael Lohan

Daddy Lohan's secret daughter goes under knife to look like Lindsay. Yikes!

Oh my lord, this story makes us want to become nuns, or vegans or something. Something really pure and sober and far away from this kind of Hollywood nastiness. Remember a few years ago when it was revealed that Lindsay Lohan's father Michael Lohan had fathered a secret daughter while still married to Dina Lohan? That daughter, Ashley Horn, is 18 now, and she's gotten $25,000 of plastic surgery to look more like Lindsay. Are you back from staring blankly at the horizon, a sweaty drink clutched in your hand? Cool. "My goal was to look like Lindsay in her good days, when she was around 18, 19 years old," Horn, who has never met her famous sister, told In Style. She doesn't, really, but Ashley's apparently pleased with the results. "I'm hotter than Lindsay!" she said. "I have no problem saying that." Oh, I think you have any number of problems, girl.

Galifianakis goes where many would love to tread

Zach Galifianakis

We imagine there are a lot of people who have been waiting for a long time to see someone spank Justin Bieber's little butt. Not necessarily for the same reasons. Anyway, they're all in luck. Justin Bieber appeared on Between Two Ferns, Zach Galifianakis's mock talk show on Funny Or Die. As usual, Galifianakis's talk show host character was sullen, hostile and incompetent, and with Bieber he really turns up the hostility. "You've had three hairstyles. What's next for your career?" he demands. Finally the comedian whips off his belt to give Justin a spanking. The whole thing makes the pop star look like a good sport about his recent image troubles, which I imagine was the point.

Open-minded Gwyneth tempts fate with fidelity comment

MELINDA TAUB
Metro World News in NYC

Cheating on your spouse is a big no-no for most people, unless you're married to a really chill, go with the flow kind of lady. You know, like Gwyneth Paltrow.

In her latest film, Thanks for Sharing, Paltrow plays a woman dating a sex addict, and she says she could handle it in real life if her spouse was unfaithful.

"I think that if the idea of being committed to someone is important to you, you begin to value certain parts of your social life over another. No couple is the same, and as such, every couple takes on different challenges. I would like to think that I would be forgiving and/or forgiven, but I can't give an honest answer as I haven't really experienced that," said Paltrow, who's married to Coldplay musician Chris Martin.

Paltrow would be totally cool about cheating, but it doesn't matter, because no one has ever, ever cheated on her. Got it.

The Iron Man star also said she'd be able to deal with dating a sex addict. "I'm an extremely open-minded person, so I think if it was something I knew I was getting myself into, I wouldn't let it deter me from exploring the relationship." I love her. I really do.

Attention! Wilderness bonding awaits for privates Pitt and LaBeouf

Brad Pitt, Shia LaBeouf and three other Fury cast-members were "ordered to go camping together" recently in the English countryside in preparation for the film, according to Us Weekly. "They play soldiers in the same World War II troop, and the director (David Ayer) wanted to make sure they bonded," a source says. "So he dropped them in the wilderness — without their cellphones."

Baking Beekman style: Buttermilk Pie

The Fabulous Beekman Boys. Josh Kilmer-Purcell and his partner Brent Ridge are still enjoying country life — and eats

IZABELA SZYDLO

Josh Kilmer-Purcell and Brent Ridge of The Fabulous Beekman Boys. CONTRIBUTED

What do you do after leaving the hectic pace of New York City to buy a 19th century farmhouse in upstate New York?

If you're couple Josh Kilmer-Purcell and Brent Ridge, you launch a local produce company called Beekman 1802 (now one of the fastest growing lifestyle brands in the U.S.) and learn to be farmers — with cameras in tow. Then you race around the world on the Amazing Race — and win.

After their 2012 win, Kilmer-Purcell and Ridge are once again gracing TV screens with a new season of The Fabulous Beekman Boys (Tuesdays, 10 p.m. on Cottage Life TV).

The couple also recently published its first book — The Beekman 1802 Heirloom Dessert Cookbook: 100 Delicious Heritage Recipes from the Farm and Garden.

Of this Buttermilk Pie with Pecan Crust, the boys say, "This delectable pie is something Grandma might have made with pecans from the backyard tree and tangy buttermilk. This pie is sweet, rich and just plain lovely."

This recipe serves eight. CONTRIBUTED

Ingredients

Crust
- 1 cup all-purpose flour (spooned into cup and levelled off)
- 1/3 cup pecans
- 3 tbsp granulated sugar
- 1/2 tsp salt
- 4 tbsp (1/2 stick) cold unsalted butter, cut into bits
- 1 large egg
- Flour for the work surface

Filling
- 11/4 cups granulated sugar
- 3 tbsp cornstarch
- 3 large eggs
- 6 tbsp (3/4 stick) unsalted butter, melted
- 11/3 cups buttermilk
- 1 tsp grated lemon zest
- 1/2 tsp freshly grated nutmeg
- Pecans for garnish (optional)

1. Crust: In food processor, combine flour, pecans, sugar, and salt and pulse until pecans are finely ground. Add butter and egg and pulse until dough holds together when pinched but does not form ball. Pat into a flat disk and refrigerate for at least 30 minutes or up to a day.

2. On a lightly floured work surface, roll out the dough to a 12-inch round. Roll dough around rolling pin and fit into a 9-inch pie plate without stretching it, pressing the dough into the bottom and against the sides of the pan. With a pair of scissors or a paring knife, trim the dough to leave a 1-inch overhang all around. Fold the overhang in over the rim to make a double layer of dough and, with your fingers, crimp the dough around the edge. Refrigerate for at least 1 hour before baking (this helps relax dough so it doesn't shrink when baking).

3. Preheat the oven to 400 F. Line the pie shell with foil or parchment paper, leaving an overhang, and fill with pie weights or dried beans to weight the crust down. Bake for 15 minutes, then remove the foil and weights and bake for 10 minutes longer or until golden. Remove the pie shell and leave the oven on but reduce the temperature to 325 F.

4. Filling: In food processor, combine sugar and cornstarch and pulse until combined. Add the eggs, butter, buttermilk, lemon zest, and nutmeg and process until combined.

5. Pour the mixture into the warm pie shell and bake for 55 minutes to 1 hour, or until the filling is set and just slightly wobbly in the centre. Let cool on a wire rack. Serve at room temperature or chilled, garnished with pecans, if you like.

How does fall know? As soon as the first day of autumn hits, there's a noticeable chill in the air and leaves start dropping faster than beats from a Jay Z album.

Actually, I love fall. There's Thanksgiving (my fave wine buying holiday), Halloween and a vibe in the air that gets my palate in the mood for a warming glass of whisky. The rustic aromas and robust flavours of whisky is a perfect foil for the season.

While Canadian whisky has languished in the shadow of its American, Irish and Scottish cousins for way too long, new artisan producers have taken the brown spirit category by storm. Nova Scotia's Glenora makes the only true Canuck single malt at its distillery in Glenville on Cape Breton Island. Though Glenora's Glen Breton Rare 10 Year Old Single Malt Canadian Whisky ($72.95 to $88.10) doesn't hide its Scottish influences, it adds its own twist with soft aromatics and a smooth attack on the palate.

Typically served on its own or over ice, it makes an appealing partner for many cheeses and desserts, especially the pecan-influenced pie sharing my page today.

NHLers locked in a year after lockout

On time this time.
Players reflect on last year's uncertainty and this year's excitement

A little over a year ago, Jordan Eberle packed his things and drove from his summer home in Calgary to Edmonton like any other season, but there was one major difference.

"Obviously, I didn't know where I was playing," the Oilers forward said.

The uncertainty of the lockout "overwhelmed everything," in the words of NHLPA executive director Donald Fehr. For players, not having a target date to shoot for a year ago made for a unique challenge.

"You didn't know what was going to happen," Boston Bruins goaltender Tuukka Rask said. "You just didn't want to burn yourself out by working out."

Those worries and so many others are gone. The 2013-14 NHL season features full training camps and exhibition schedules and, most importantly, an 82-game season that feels much more familiar than the 48-game sprint of last season.

"This is a little bit more back to normal," New York Rangers goaltender Henrik Lundqvist said. "After a long summer, you're excited to be back on the ice and get ready and start playing again. The same feeling you had last summer, it was just you never got the chance to start on time. That was disappointing, but we moved past that now and I think everybody's just happy to be back and preparing for a new season. I think both players and hopefully fans feel the same way."

Harmony returned to hockey not too long after the acrimonious lockout ended in January. Fehr was not surprised that the focus shifted quickly from boardroom monotony to intense focus on the ice.

A memorable Stanley Cup final between the Chicago Blackhawks and the Bruins closed out the spectacular season that almost wasn't. It was the most watched final on record, and other ratings and attendance figures made the lockout seem like a distant memory.

"It's almost like it was forgotten about a week after you start playing," NHL executive vice president and director of hockey operations Colin Campbell said.

Lockout fallout

An even split of hockey-related revenue between owners and players set the salary cap at $64.3 million, making for plenty roster questions in the closing days of the pre-season.

- Realignment into four divisions and a new playoff format adds a layer of unpredictability to the proceedings.
- The Red Wings and Blue Jackets' move to the Eastern Conference could displace one or more playoff teams while the Winnipeg Jets got a geographic gift with their shift to the West.

UFC

'Bones' Jones to face Teixera next

A rematch with Alexander Gustafsson will have to wait for Jon "Bones" Jones.

The UFC light-heavyweight champion is slated to meet Glover Teixeira next, as originally planned.

There was talk that the Brazilian's title shot might be delayed after UFC 165 earlier this month when Jones won a close decision over Gustafsson.

Thomas lands full-time gig in Florida

Tim Thomas is officially back in the NHL.

Loui Eriksson sent a high shot past goalie Ondrej Pavelec to give the Boston Bruins a 3-2 pre-season victory in overtime against the Winnipeg Jets on Thursday.

Ryan Spooner and Eriksson went down the ice together and Spooner sent a pass across to Eriksson, who moved the puck with his skate onto his stick to set up his first goal of the pre-season 1:46 in OT.

Niklas Svedberg stopped 26 shots for the Bruins, who improved their exhibition record to 5-1-0. Pavelec faced 33 shots for the Jets (1-3-3).

The teams play a rematch Friday in Boston.

Spooner and Patrice Bergeron also scored for the Bruins. Devon Setoguchi and Mark Scheifele had Winnipeg's two power-play goals.

The teams were tied 1-1 heading into the third period after a scoreless second at MTS Centre.

Bergeron had the game's first goal when he took a feed from Brad Marchand and put a close, low shot past Pavelec at 3:54 of the first period for his first goal of the pre-season. THE CANADIAN PRESS

IOC convinced Russia will respect Olympic charter

Sochi check. But commission admits it 'doesn't really have the right to discuss the laws in the country'

The International Olympic Committee doesn't have the authority to intervene in Russia's law banning gay propaganda and is convinced there will be no discrimination against athletes or spectators at the Winter Games in Sochi, a top Olympic official said Thursday.

Jean-Claude Killy, chairman of the IOC Coordination Commission, gave his stamp of approval of Russian preparations for the Games during a news conference at the conclusion of the commission's 10th and final visit to Sochi before the Olympics, which begin on Feb. 7.

Russia has come under scrutiny as the next host of the Olympics because of the law passed this summer outlawing "propaganda of nontraditional sexual relations among minors," which many worry may apply to gay athletes and visitors to the games.

Killy said the commission considered the issue carefully and in the end was fully convinced that Russia will respect the Olympic charter, which prohibits discrimination of any kind. He said the IOC had received written assurances from Russian officials there would be no discrimination.

Russian officials insist the law is designed to protect children and doesn't infringe on the rights of gays.

The Human Rights Campaign, the largest gay rights organization in the U.S., condemned the IOC's assessment of the Russian law.

Exit Sandman: Rivera throws final pitch in Bronx

Baseball's most acclaimed relief pitcher made an emotional exit in his final appearance in the Yankees' home pinstripes on Thursday night. Countdown on for Selig's retirement

After a decade of maintaining his departure was imminent, baseball commissioner Bud Selig put his exit plans in writing Thursday and said in a statement he will retire in January 2015 after 22 years.

His revolutionary reign produced an $8-billion industry, interleague play, an expanded post-season and two decades of labour peace. But, he also presided over a cancelled World Series and long-running drug scandal.

Some owners — even his wife — had been skeptical in the past that he really would quit, but this marked the first time he issued a formal statement that he will give up the sport's top job. He even gave an exact date: Jan. 24, 2015. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CFL

Bombers' Edwards still holding onto playoff hope in Winnipeg

The Winnipeg Blue Bombers may be 2-10, but veteran receiver Terrence Edwards insists they haven't given up hope of getting into the playoffs.

"That's CFL football, you're not out of it until you're out of it," he said Thursday, as the Bombers prepared to host the 8-4 B.C. Lions.

The Lions can lock up a playoff spot in the West with a win over Winnipeg. But they can also do it if Edmonton loses at home to Toronto.

With Montreal at 4-8, and having lost a game to Winnipeg, the Bombers playoff hopes in the East may be slim but they're still mathematically alive.

"We've still got the chance to get into the playoffs, we've just got to play like did in the first half of last weekend and I think the wins will take care of themselves," said Edwards. THE CANADIAN PRESS

NFL. Johnson says Burleson injury should make Lions offence better

Calvin Johnson is trying to stay positive after Nate Burleson's injury.

Burleson was coming off a big game last weekend at Washington, but he broke his arm in a car crash early Tuesday, so now the Lions will have to rely on Johnson and a number of less proven options at wide receiver. That didn't work out well last season, when Burleson hurt his leg and the Lions slumped to a 4-12 finish.

Johnson doesn't sound too worried about a repeat. In fact, he's hopeful some of his teammates will benefit from bigger roles.

"In the end, it's going to make us a very good receiver group," Johnson said.

Burleson's absence toward the end of last season didn't hurt Johnson's stats. He finished with 122 catches for a record 1,964 yards — but Detroit's offence could have used more balance. Aside from Johnson, there weren't many big-play threats for quarterback Matthew Stafford to throw to.

This weekend, Detroit hosts Chicago, which limited Johnson to eight catches for 106 yards over two games last season. In other words, the Lions may very well need significant contributions from someone other than their best receiver.

It looks like they'll have running back Reggie Bush back from a knee injury, and his speed and elusiveness - both as a runner and a receiver - has already added an extra element to Detroit's offence. Tight ends Brandon Pettigrew, Tony Scheffler and Joseph Fauria are also pass-catching threats.

Horoscopes

Aries
March 21 - April 20
Get your head out of the clouds and be more practical. No matter how pleased you may be by recent events, you cannot afford to believe that nothing will change. Fantasy is fun but the real world matters.

Taurus
April 21 - May 21
You may feel guilty that you have not spent more time with someone you are fond of but they understand, so don't beat yourself up. You will get plenty of chances to make it up to them over the weekend.

Gemini
May 22 - June 21
Something will go wrong today but it's no big deal. Stay calm and tackle the problem in a controlled way. Others will react on an emotional level, so you must keep your head.

Cancer
June 22 - July 23
A difficult decision involving a family matter will have to be made and you must make the final call. You may not want to hurt a loved one's feelings but sometimes you have to be cruel to be kind.

Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
You need to streamline your workload and you can start by knocking minor projects on the head. If they don't take you closer to your number one goal then they are a waste of time — get rid of them.

Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
Conserve your energy. The planets indicate that the weekend could be extra busy, so make use of today's less stressful aspects to rest.

Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
Promise yourself that no matter what kind of situation you find yourself in you will find a way to turn it to your advantage. You're nothing if not creative.

Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
You are many things but no way are you stupid. Which makes you wonder why someone is trying to get you interested in a plan that has no way of ever succeeding.

Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
There are some things that even a fun-loving Sagittarian finds too serious to laugh about and one such topic is dominant now. Others may mock but you think a sense of respect is in order and intend to act accordingly.

Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
Try to be tolerant of people who see life from a different angle. Some of them may be a bit lacking in the brain box department but it takes all sorts to make a world.

Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
Strive to stay on good terms with partners, whatever differences of opinion you may have had recently. You will need all the support you can get over the weekend, so don't alienate anyone.

Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
If there are any loose ends of a financial nature that need to be tied up then get tying now because come Sunday you will no longer be in charge of what happens. SALLY BROMPTON
